

What is the best solar incentive in Idaho?

The best solar incentive in Idaho is the combination of the state tax rebate with the Federal Solar Investment Tax Credit. We will provide the details on these programs and some local incentives to help you see why the push to solar power is such a smart move.

Does Idaho offer a solar tax credit?

Idaho residents can benefit from both the federal tax credit and the state tax credit, which offers a deduction in the amount of 40% of your system value for the first year and 20% per year for three years after that. In addition to this perk, energy efficiency improvements like solar conversion provide even more value.

Are solar panels expensive in Idaho?

Solar panel systems in Idaho are expensive, but incentives from the state and federal governments can help you reduce the upfront cost. Between the federal tax credit and other state-specific incentives, you can save thousands on solar panels, making them well worth the investment. Here's how you can lower the cost of solar if you live in Idaho.

How much does a solar system cost in Idaho?

The Residential Clean Energy Credit, formerly known as the federal investment tax credit (ITC), can reduce your solar panel system's cost by 30%. Your entire system qualifies for this incentive, including equipment, labor, permitting, and sales tax. The average cost for a 5 kW solar panel system is around $14,280 in Idaho.

Are solar panels tax deductible in Idaho?

This is one of the stronger programs in the industry and one that is well worth considering. There is no tax credit for a residential solar system purchase in Idaho. This means that you will still be subject to the sales tax rate of 6.50% for your new solar power system purchases.

Are there solar incentives for nonprofit organizations in Idaho?

The Commercial Idaho solar incentives are strong and will allow for a few extra benefits and loan programs that the residential programs do not offer. If a solar panel system could help your company or business with its green initiatives, Idaho is an excellent place to be. There are no specific solar incentives for nonprofit organizations in Idaho.
