Generally, you can expect to find free Level 2 charging stations at participating Target stores which will add 20 miles of driving distance per hour of charging. Does Target have charging stations?

Target, as a brand, does incorporate charging stations at many, but not all of its stores-- yet. Over the last several years, Target has partnered with Electrify America, Chargepoint, and Tesla to bring both Level 2 and Level 3 (the super fast type) charging options to more and more locations at a rapid rate.

Does Target offer free EV charging?

Generally, select Target stores offer free electric vehicle charging for up to 2 hours and charge a fee beyond that (typically $2 dollars per hour). The free charging offered is at Level 2 speeds and is generally around 7kW per hour. This will provide the typical EV with 20 miles of driving range per hour of charge time.

Where are EV charging stations located?

Not all of these are at Target locations, and many of the stations are located at competitors of Target as well. Electrify America, who is one of the partnered companies with Target in the creation of EV charging stations, has their stations located alongside major interstates and highways at the present time. There are 720 completed locations.

What is Level 3 charging?

Level 3 charging is something that runs up the electric bill fast for the store and what you will be charged for that will depend on the provider that you find at that particular location. The Electrify America charging stations typically charge by the minute or by the kilowatt-hour (kWh) depending on the state in which you live.
